Studsvik wins arbitration

In connection with the construction of Studsvik's waste treatment facility in Erwin, USA, a dispute arose regarding raised construction costs etc. The dispute, which was dealt with by an arbitration panel, was between Studsvik's subsidiary, Studsvik, Inc., and a consortium consisting of Metric Constructors and Duke Engineering (Metric Duke).

The arbitration panel is now ordering the consortium to pay Studsvik, Inc. 4,3 million dollars as compensation for raised construction costs.

Studsvik has been withholding payments to the consortium of 3,4 million dollars and so the order implies a net payment to Studsvik of 0,9 million dollars.

"We are pleased to finally put these long proceedings behind us. Now we can devote all our energy to continuing to develop our operations in the American market, both as regards conventional nuclear waste in the Erwin facility and as regards the federal waste we treat in our company THOR Treatment Technologies. The decision of the arbitration court means that the acquisition value of the Erwin facility will be written down, which improves the group's operating result by about 0,3 million dollars per year" says the Chief Executive Officer Hans-Bertil Håkansson.
